Creator quick start

A practical reference for introducing Figure Us Out to your audience.

Figure Us Out helps couples understand their individual personalities and how those personalities work together. The guides explore strengths, recurring misunderstandings and ways to approach differences with a better understanding of each other.

Start free

Take the free assessment, then add your name and verify your email to read your first four personal chapters and personality charts. Send your partner an email invitation to read the rest of your personal report, including your personality types, for free. Your partner gets that additional reading when they finish and connect with you. Once you've both finished and connected your results, you can read your free couples comparison. No payment details are needed.

The full couples package

The couples package adds your written couples guidebook, personalized 12-week workbook, AI guide, downloadable PDFs and a print-ready book with both personal reports, your couples guidebook and workbook. Printing and binding are separate. People who already know their MBTI type, Enneagram type and wing can use the paid shortcut.

$35 for both people, or $25 with an eligible affiliate code. Prices are before applicable tax. One payment, no subscription. The book is a digital file to print; no physical book is shipped.

Use the link that fits your invitation

Choose your personal free-assessment link to invite people to start free, or your couples-package link for the full guides. Share your assigned code and ask buyers to check the discount before paying.

Find your links, code, QR cards and examples at figureusout.com/affiliates/materials. Replace every bracketed placeholder before posting.

Something specific to share

Choose a detail that gives your audience something to consider.

If you have tried the site

Describe one passage that helped you explain a preference, a difference your partner recognized, or an exercise that led to a useful conversation. Include any qualification that matters. Your own words and actual experience are enough.

If you are introducing it for the first time

Show a section from the Alex and Morgan example guides and identify it as an example. You could discuss making plans, thinking out loud or needing time before answering. Explain what the guide explores without borrowing someone else's experience.

A short video

Introduce one topic, show the relevant guide section or chart, and explain what interests you. Finish with a single invitation to start free or explore the package, using the matching personal link. Keep private results and account details off screen.

Your referral and disclosure

You earn $10 on an eligible first purchase under the affiliate program terms. Free visits do not earn commission; refunds and disputes can affect eligibility. Place a clear disclosure beside your recommendation: "I may earn a commission if you buy through my link or code."

Using the campaign files

Finished campaign materials and the supplied Thomas Manning / Epic Light Media source files are provided for Figure Us Out promotion. Some imagery is AI-assisted or illustrative. Pictured people and imagined dialogue are not customer testimonials. Keep supplied credits and imagined-dialogue labels with reused material.

The text pack includes eight optional captions, two email starters and prompts for sharing a genuine experience. For help, email hello@figureusout.com.
